Mainboard IPO vs. SME IPO: Choosing the Right Path

There are two main types of IPOs that companies can pursue: the Mainboard IPO and the SME IPO. The choice depends on the company's size, financial position, and growth objectives.

1. Mainboard IPO:

Designed for larger, well-established companies, Mainboard IPOs have stringent requirements set by SEBI (Securities and Exchange Board of India). Businesses must have a minimum net worth, profitability record, and paid-up capital. Mainboard IPOs provide greater visibility and attract a more extensive range of institutional investors.

2. SME IPO:

SME IPOs cater to small and medium-sized enterprises, allowing them to raise capital on specialized platforms like the NSE Emerge or BSE SME. The requirements for SME IPOs are less stringent, making them accessible for smaller businesses looking to access public funds. IPO services help SMEs navigate these requirements efficiently.
